

Contributors

Caley Dyck recently completed a Bachelor of Arts (Honours) in History of Art. In the future she plans to pursue a Master's degree in Information Studies.

Cierra Bettens is a writer and editor based in Winnipeg, MB. She graduated with a BAH in Political Science from the University of Winnipeg in 2023.

Danijela Sarić is a recent Master of Arts graduate with a major in History. Her primary interests are in 20th century and Eastern European history.

Emma Dubeski (she/her) graduated with a Bachelor's with Honours in History and minor in Religion and Culture Studies in 2023. Her academic focus is post-war Canadian History, specifically looking at women's history across the prairies. She is pursuing a Master's degree in Canadian History at the University of Winnipeg and University of Manitoba's Joint Master's Program in 2024.

Emma Joyal (she/her) is a recent graduate from the University of Winnipeg. She completed a major in English Honours and a minor in Women's and Gender Studies. Much of Emma's work centers on the intersections of queer theory, feminist theory, and literature. This final research paper was written for ENGL-4903: Critical Race Studies.

Holly Hunter graduated from the University of Winnipeg in 2021 with a Master's degree in Public Administration. She has spent the past decade working as a teacher in Seven Oaks School Division. In 2018 she was elected to serve as a trustee in St. James-Assiniboia School Division. Her academic interests fall at the nexus of education and public policy.

Maddy Nowosad is a recent graduate from the University of Winnipeg, with a Bachelor of Arts (Hons) in Rhetoric, Writing, and Communications, and a minor in Women's and Gender Studies. Her research interests center on digital rhetoric and communications. Maddy is passionate about advocating for the 2SLGBTQ+ community, primarily through her involvement in Winnipeg's skateboard community.

Sarah Seroy recently graduated with an Honours BA in Rhetoric and Communications from the University of Winnipeg, and will be continuing her studies in a graduate program in Communications. Her work focuses on Indigenous representation, political rhetoric, and anticolonialism.

Scott Maier is pursuing a joint communications degree with the University of Winnipeg and Red River College Polytechnic, and has a minor in German Studies. He enjoys all things writing and is interested in creative nonfiction.

Taylor Sanford is a recent Honours graduate, holding a Bachelor's degree in Rhetoric, Writing, and Communications. Taylor is an environmentally-minded communications specialist and graphic designer with a focus on social justice. They currently work at Calgary Pride as Manager of Membership and Fund Development.